2011-2012 Zicklin Center Faculty Funding Research Project

The Penn Program on Democracy, Citizenship, and Constitutionalism was established with the aid of a grant from the Mellon Foundation in order to engage both the scholarly and public communities in an examination of questions that arise from taking seriously these ideals.

The theme for 2011-2012 is “Corporations and Citizenship.” In light of the Zicklin Center’s active role in this area, we are requesting financial support for two events. The first is the opening event at the National Constitution Center and the second, a one-day conference at the end of the year. The support would help cover travel costs of speakers.
